I decided I needed to talk to my wife about what she was going to do next since she didn’t seem to have plans to do anything. I wanted to be clear that the next steps weren’t going to be anything other than going to her sister’s house with my son. I explained what my concerns were and asked her to think about what she was going to do. She called back in an hour and did something which I never expected from her. She asked me to tell her how she was feeling. She asked me if I felt
