It's .In a move to remedy the collective 'B' in its name, the University of Iowa has partnered with the Iowa Department of Natural Resources to establish a new center for ecosystems, land use, and environmental management. Focused on research, teaching, and education within the natural sciences and public policy, the center will be housed at the UI Belk Institute of Agriculture in Iowa City and will emphasize ecosystem management, land use, and other natural resource research, teaching, and education. The new center will be housed in a converted cafeteria building and will open next year, during the fall semester of 2016. The project will cost $10 million to be funded jointly by the UI and the DNR. The UI Foundation serves as a fundraising partner for the project, as will the College of Engineering, School of Public Health, and College of Architecture and Art. “The University of Iowa is proud to be a leader in environmental science, including the study of natural resources. The new center represents an important step toward realizing the vision of the newly established university university,” said UI President Sally Mason. “This center will offer an exciting opportunity for collaborative research and educational efforts among campus faculty, faculty from the School of Public Health, and students from the UI School of Medicine. This is certainly one of the most exciting projects being funded by the Iowa Foundation.” In support of the new center, the Iowa Foundation is donating $4.5 million for the construction of a new building for the center, and the UI Foundation has committed to contributing $1.25 million to the project. The UI Foundation will also contribute $7.5 million toward the initial operating costs for the new center. “We are very excited about the potential of the new center. It will help Iowa to address some of the important questions of sustainability, and it will do so in a unique, collaborative way. We are very pleased to be a partner in this project,” said Mark Holm, president of the UI Foundation. The new center will take advantage of existing labs and services available on campus and will be a ‘hands-on’ endeavor that can help

I am trying to set up cascading updates on my DateTime field's: public virtual void OnUpdate() { var rows = _db.SiteReservations.Where(x => x.SiteReservationId == id); foreach (var item in rows) { item.ReservationDate = ReservationUtil.ConvertDateTimeToUnixFormattedDateTime(item.ReservationDate); } _db.SaveChanges(); } My Reservation DateTime field is declared as [Column(TypeName="datetime")] public virtual DateTime ReservationDate { get; set; } My query works fine and updates the database, however, it seems like it is rolling the DateTime and not updating all the way down. Any help would be greatly appreciated. Here is the Update Method that converts the DateTime to the UnixFormattedDateTime. /// /// @return a Unix formatted DateTime string /// public static DateTime ConvertDateTimeToUnixFormattedDateTime(DateTime dateTime) { int day = dateTime.Day; int month = dateTime.Month 3e33713323
