This computer virus has been found in the wild and, as a way of exploiting its capabilities, it provides some free and well-tested keylogger and screen capture tools. The application gives the hacker the ability to see the current clipboard, which includes sensitive information including user's login credentials and the passwords for online sites. The virus also performs some simple keylogging and screenshots which, at the end of the day, are also sent to a remote server. Despite the fact that it is hard to defend against the Papras Trojan, some important steps can be done to mitigate its impact. First of all, the user must avoid the installation of programs from unknown or suspicious sources, and then he or she must make sure that each of the system's administrator privileges is restricted in order to avoid any security breach.
