Configure functioning parameters during the initial setup Subsequent to the installation process, you will need to go through the setup operation, establishing the 'FTP Root' folder, the default account (username and password) and optionally activating the 'Web File Manager' feature, which allows you to access it from a web browser. Next, the 'Rumpus Administration' panel lets you start and stop the server at will, with a single button push. From this location, you can also adjust its 'Settings', add or remove accounts and connect to your FTP. Effortlessly connect to the FTP server via your client of choice and upload or download files When trying to access the previously created FTP server, Rumpus allows you to choose between using a web browser (such as Internet Explorer, Google Chrome, Firefox or Safari), a FTP client (recommending some of the most popular options, namely FileZilla and SmartFTP), or from outside your LAN. Regardless of the preferred connection mode, you will need to authenticate before gaining access to the files and folders in your FTP folder; for this purpose, you can use the initially created username and password, for instance. Once you login, you can view the available files and their basic information, such as format, size and the last time they were updated. You are able to 'Upload File', view and manage 'Account Info', 'Create Folder', as well as download or delete a document by clicking on the corresponding button.
