I didn't go to see it at the cinema with the dragons, but on the Disney+ streaming service. Like a lot of people, this was my first time seeing this story. The original trailer for the film back in 2014 was very strange. You'd see this humongous dragon, but it was always from behind an actor's head. When the actor moved, the dragon would too. I thought that was strange. What was going on?! Then we saw the final cut. The dragons were on-screen in the most amazing way. It was beautiful. It was simple. And I loved it. But that's when I realised that it wasn't just me liking it. Everyone seemed to like it as well. I've followed the project since it was announced and one of the films I've been most interested in is this one. I 1cdb36666d
