As a method of manufacturing an electrode plate, a method of alternately arranging anode members and cathode members has been known. In the method, a paste for making an anode plate is applied on a surface of a plate-like base member in the form of a cathode, and then the paste is heated and dried to obtain a paste electrode (anode). The paste electrode is coated with a paste for making a cathode and then baked to form a cathode plate. In such a method, however, the 1cdb36666d
