FIFA 20 introduced a number of significant gameplay enhancements. Those enhancements were highlighted by a number of fan-favorite gameplay features, including the introduction of a coaching tutorial and pre-season matches, the ability to control open-world matches during live matches, more depth in customizing teams, and a new game mode called "Play with Traction." Additionally, the introduction of "Sports Champions" advanced the footspeed and ball physics in gameplay, while "Creative Control" added new tools and game modes to designers. With the release of "Fifa 22 Activation Code," we are excited to expand upon these enhancements and introduce new gameplay features that we hope will elevate your FIFA experiences. HyperMotion Technology HyperMotion Technology, also known as OMOTION, is the first time we've used motion capture data in real-time player animation. This technology enables a number of new features within FIFA that move the goalposts for sports games. When a player strikes the ball with his foot and ends up in a goal scoring situation, that goal will now activate in real-time, creating an atmosphere of added excitement for gamers in the stadium. We want to emphasize that this new technology will not significantly slow down gameplay or make the game feel more sluggish on consoles. We will continue to iterate on the experience with new features, including: Playmaker animations more consistent with the ball's movement Goal animations more precise when the ball is struck in a playmaker's path Improvements to interaction with the ball and the players around them Please keep in mind that players will retain the ability to use their gamepad or on-screen controls at all times in the game. However, this new technology adds a layer of precision when playing on consoles. We also think the HyperMotion Technology will look great on the cover of the game. New Game Modes New exciting game modes designed to encourage players to play and enjoy the true love of sports, football. These new modes will be available in our "Custom" Modus. Ball Tracking Ball tracking is a new feature that will allow you to play a full game of soccer with all the features of a real game. The computer and the player will know the exact location of the ball at all times. Player Mode Live pre-season games allow you to create and customize your own clubs, play the pre-season games
