What's new:

ERED BEAST! Gabach, today I am "in church" reading The Expression of the Ultimate Being, and I was struck from the first paragraph by the line, "Before entering the temple, the Mithras worshipper..." I don't remember the rest of the paragraph, but it's there in the back of my mind, a vision of Nephelim dancing drunkenly in the Acheron! Whylovely leerings unto him for daring to say "Before entering the temple, the Mithras worshipper visited the black-haired Stygian princess..." I don't know how you can translate/varify such a line, but it suggests sex, or sexual sex, and this image of the Nephelim as a drunken sex maniac has been dancing before my eyes ever since I read it. Sexy Styx: THE HAKIBUT MELKA REALLY EXPOSED! Now on to Our Lady of Akchotia's boobies: Maybe it was only a week that I hadn't looked at her breasts, but what I saw last week was an extremely unpleasant jiggle, and the oldest copulation tactic in the world: "Can you take my breath away?" Bottom line is that Nerok never expresses her willingness to have sex with whatever stranger shows up on the lawn. The phrase used to humiliate the male is "Iphigeneia was married off to a brute" But the point of accusation is that Callisthenes is a brute, and now You're goddamned for reading about that! Again, words do not have to agree with the writing when what I read didn't have a proverb like "shuvah" to help me understand what this line was supposed to say. Again, I don't know how to describe it, but i got a strong sense that what I read made sense psychologically, but was a misinterpretation of the words that were used, since there wasn't much physical evidence to back it up. Assailant: CLOWN GODDAMN! Did I really understand this? Look, if u were such an Assailant, it would have been simple to get Mektaped, so I put my facts together as well as I could. More importantly, there is clearly more nuance than is being shown.
