I can't seem to figure out how to go about selecting a class when using Typescript. This is what I have in my.CSS file: .loadingScreen { display: none; background-color: #000; background-image: url(../assets/images/loading.gif); background-repeat: no-repeat; background-position: center; background-color: #fff; } And this is my.ts file: export class LoadingScreen { constructor() { this.addClasses(); } addClasses() { document.getElementsByClassName('loadingScreen').style.display = 'block'; } } But this doesn't seem to work. I also had addClasses in my.ts file, but then it didn't show anything. A: You can just use document.querySelector() and it's.style property instead of.getElementsByClassName. But as @Vincent Demarle pointed out you can't use.addClasses() to show a loader because it is method to add classes but
