Patients with asymptomatic hyperparathyroidism (AH) have been reported to be at risk for restless legs syndrome (RLS). This study was aimed to investigate the prevalence of RLS in patients with AH. Seven hundred consecutive patients with AH who were referred to our department for routine laboratory monitoring were examined for the presence of RLS. Forty-eight (6.8%) of these patients had RLS. There was a significant difference between the patients with RLS and those without RLS with respect to the serum calcium level, intestinal blood pH, age at the onset of hyperparathyroidism, duration of hypercalcemia, and the prevalence of renal stones, and myocardial disease. The difference was most marked in patients with serum calcium The present invention relates to a semiconductor device and a manufacturing method thereof. As a semiconductor device is increased in size, the
