A new post by Shacknews details the new connections that have arisen from the ESRB listing: The new game is being developed by Team Ninja, who was last responsible for the Ninja Gaiden series, Dragon Quest IX and the Yakuza series. The fourth and fifth installments of the Ninja Gaiden games were the very first games to launch titles on the Xbox 360, and have appeared on the Xbox One, PlayStation 3, PlayStation 4 and PS Vita. Team Ninja is also going to be responsible for the new Dead or Alive title, something that is a little over the top. The description of the game says "Wielding all-new weapons and fighting styles, the player will unlock new stages by beating the game's ranks and take on a host of new enemies." Dead or Alive 5 was recently released for PlayStation 4 and Xbox One, and is the latest installment in the series. The first three games in the series were developed by Team Ninja, and it will be interesting to see what they will do with Dead or Alive 6. Also in the February issue of Famitsu, Take-Two Interactive President Jim Bithell discussed the upcoming new Tomb Raider game. "Tomb Raider has the best character in video games."
