How it works To initiate a search, you have two methods, either use the 'Search Assistant' or select and configure settings from the right side of the main window. If you want to configure the search options on your own, there are three types of search types to choose from, namely Boolean, Wildcard or Regular Expression. By choosing the Boolean search method, you can set the application to perform a whole document search or a line by line one. Moreover, you can apply search filters, such as exact match, case sensitive or comments only. If you are a power user or a programmer, you might find the Boolean Search Builder option extremely useful because it enables you to create a search query by defining your own expression. Help for beginner users With the help of the 'Search Assistant', you can set the application to search for a specific database object, code snippet or a variable to find any references throughout all the stored source codes, including within reports and databases. It allows you to find all database objects (tables, stored procedures, indexes, sequences, views and synonyms). Also, it generates detailed content specification documents, extracts all SQL code, creates a database cross reference for your reports and updates all datasource connections or replaces DNS qualified table names within Crystal Reports. Next, the Export Wizard aids you in creating or selecting the project you want to work with. Using projects enables you to group filters and directories between sessions, as well as save settings. The following step lets you perform the search in both Crystal and Oracle Reports. Then you can select the folders and subfolders where you wish the application to look for reports. You can add as many directories as you need, without restrictions. Once you have completed these steps, you are prompted to export the results as a XLS file, that can be saved on your computer or automatically opened. Conclusion All in all, Find it EZ is a comprehensive search and software change management tool for Crystal Reports designers, database developers and project managers that provides accurate estimation and optimal design selection for maximizing productivity.
