Lava fields at Pyramid Lake, Nevada. Dustin Clowney. 1. Primary source: Intertribal Council of Nevada (ICNV) 2. Isle: Lake Number One, Pyramid Lake Reservoir, NV 3. Relation to: Pyramid Lake This moment came unexpectedly, a sudden turning point, a fork in the road. * * Reaching the end of the road again. Sometime earlier, he'd driven past the Wigwam Café. Followed any definition of the word, it was the end of the highway. Built in the 1930s and empty except for a burned-out grocery store. The map had him veering off toward Pyramid Lake. * * One headlight pinpointed down this way, full off the road and headed along the levees. * * It was his friend Elmer, a man with only a camp in his mind. No campground; no truck; no birds; no frogs. * * "This water comes from Pyramid Lake." * * "Can you see the water?" * * The whole state seemed to be waiting for the reservoir to fill. * * A signpost: Lake Number One. Cut-off. One-way. * * Turning on to the main road again, he shot by a place called Elmerville. A cluster of faded houses beside the highway. A little store. A cemetery. * * Lake Number One. * * "Maybe someone there," he said, pointing behind him to the two cars that were following him. "Or a boat camp coming up behind him," he said, pointing behind him to the other car. * * Next to him his friend was asleep, snoring softly. He wished he could fall asleep too. * * Red. * * The water was getting rougher. He drove slow. * * "Dah-dee-dee-dah-dee-daaakk!" * * A reflection jangled behind him as the car rode a bumpy spot. Chad's head sank forward like a fighter in the gym punching the bag. From his belt, the buttons

Felix (the main character) is an adventurer who lives on the idyllic northern island of Lutwyche, far from the concerns of the outside world. He's looking for the holy grail, an artifact of immense power that was swallowed by a beast called the Destroyer who now patrols the world of Lutwyche. The grail is Felix's dream, and he vows to get it for himself. "Zeran's Folly" was named after Felix's father, Zeran, who is immortalized in the game. His ashes are scattered on the beach in his son's honor and whenever the holy grail is mentioned, this plays a jaunty tune. Play with the whole family. Felicia is Felix's brother, and she can change outfits and play mini-games by herself. When Felix is playable alone, it is possible for him to live with his friend Sam, a friendly alpaca. They live in the gloomy ruins of an abandoned stone manor. Recruit a friend to come along with you, just like Zeran. Enter their name in the multiplayer section to find them. Zeran's Folly is set in a mysterious world where mysteries abound. It features dozens of weapons, armor sets, and magical artifacts to discover. It also features hundreds of enemies who challenge Felix's skills and abilities. Enter dark and foreboding dungeons and have it out with an assortment of creatures, including rats, vampires, flying pigs, and mutant badgers. Customize your armor and weapons and unlock upgrade slots to increase their damage and attack speed. Exclusive to Zeran's Folly, there are many accessories you can find. These include hats, glasses, and golden rings to gain special abilities. There are also several minigames you can play to earn these accessories. Play the Mini-games that earn you accessories, and also play the minigames in the rest of the game. In "Zeran's Folly" these are known as the Duel game, the Gel-Blast game, the Blackjack game, and the Hoverboard surfing game. You can rebind the controls to your liking via the "New Map" feature, so feel free to experiment with different controls. The "Upgrade List" feature reveals the full value of your gear, as well as the extras you can unlock by equipping specific items. Rewards earned from dead enemies can be used to buy powerups from the shop, including
