is object). How can I populate my properties of type string? They are of type Object (as well as all my other properties). Thanks. A: You can use LINQ's select method with an anonymous type. Select could be applied to a collection of your class (PropertyInfo), so you have to pass in your property type. You can use reflection to get the PropertyInfo. var className = "MyClass"; var classType = typeof(MyClass); PropertyInfo[] properties = classType.GetProperties(); foreach (PropertyInfo property in properties) { string propName = property.Name; PropertyInfo targetProperty = property.PropertyType.GetProperty(propName); if (targetProperty!= null) { object value = property.GetValue(myClassInstance); // set the property value targetProperty.SetValue(property.GetValue(myClassInstance), value); } } Q: Use namespace version for create-react-app When running create-react-app for my react project, I get the following
