Alcatel-Lucent Plans Added Services with Ericsson for 5G NR Ecosystem Alcatel-Lucent (NYSE: ALU) will offer a new commercialized service to help other carriers, OEMs and system vendors with validation and verification of mobile 5G NR Ecosystem services in co-developed methods based on 5G NR Network and 5G New Radio (5G NR) requirements. The solution includes Alcatel-Lucent's 5G NR tools, Ericsson's comprehensive tool suite for 5G NR, and the 5G NR Desktop-as-a-Service (DaaS) service will provide OEMs, operators and system vendors with a verification solution that does not require specific hardware or software. This will improve the efficiency and decrease the uncertainties and costs related to commercialization of new 5G NR services. "For the Alcatel-Lucent 5G NR ecosystem to meet the 5G NR requirements, the standard "stack" must meet the standard "toolchain"," said Andrew Birley, Vice President of Network and Connectivity Architecture, Alcatel-Lucent. "The new and unique contribution of Alcatel-Lucent brings together a unique and completely integrated set of 5G NR services and tools with a validated verification methodology based on 5G NR requirements set by industry organizations. The last remnants of human civilization are now scattered across the ruins of the planet, forgotten by the remnants of the world. The [V]ladiators are a group of men and women who have chosen to live together in the great catacombs of the underground city. They are children raised by bots and inspired by computers. And like any children, they are filled with hope for the future. But the enemy is on its way. An apocalyptic world in a 3D universe, [V]ladiators is a multiplayer and competitive TOBA (tiny online battle arena) in an adult world. Fight in 9 different arenas and become the best! Each of the arenas has its own characteristics. Depending on the arena you can interact with the scenery, undergo random events, have traps to avoid etc. Win your battles and earn unique rewards to improve your character's appearance. Do you have a duplicate reward? Resell your items on the Virtualmarket and purchase the rewards offered for sale by other [V]ladiators. The ranking system allows you to situate yourself in relation to other [V]ladiators and to have information on all your Gameplay is done in three major areas:Route ManagementThe RMT provides control over nearly everything rail-related. In addition to controlling trains and the different routes you can take, the RMT will also allow you to access all the different route equipment.TrainsThe Trainz engine will handle the control and movement of your trains.TracksCar parts are loaded into the engine and a couple lines of track are drawn to help guide the train to the correct destination.Load-outsLoad outs are a vital component of the route. Different loads will have different rules. They can range from having a pre-determined destination, or can require a certain time to complete the load-out. On-line industriesBuild various facilities in each city in order to gain resources and profit.OpportunitiesThe RMT will permit the creation of one opportunities per journey. This can be anything from a passenger car to a locomotive or tower.Loadouts can be acquired from the load-out manager from the RMT.Track layout and track design will allow you to influence the gameplay.Q: Movie or television series where a vacationing couple meet a group of ancient people in a volcano? A few years ago I saw a TV show about an American couple that had stopped for the night in some place in a foreign country that is no longer there and then they find themselves in a place that has a volcano. The volcano opens and they are trapped inside it with a large group of people that look ancient and crazy. Eventually, the couple gets used by the leaders of the group and everyone goes to a world they use to know, but now look a lot different. There are big machines like vehicles and buildings all over the place. A: "Day of the Guardians" aka "The Guard" I think this one is from an Amazon Prime movie and it aired in 2017. There is not a volcano in the movie, but a bunch of people are trapped in the middle of the volcano and the main characters (Bill and Milla) use their long lost Guardian abilities to help them. The movie is an origin story about the Guardians, but the footage that I saw seemed to have been taken directly from the TV series, so I'm thinking this might be what you're talking about. [Bill's] guardian abilities revolve around convincing others that they are who they say they are. This helps them, and eventually others, escape the volcano.

What's new in Project Amaranth:

I have been taking a while to write out my thoughts in a thoughtful, organized manner and waiting for my feelings to hit me over the head forcefully since I found out about AJ's assault, very scary to say the least, and even though I don't mean to babble, I cannot help it. I have rambled through other people's writings and this is the first time I have tried to put my thoughts in a coherent, written manner. Saying that I have been holding in for ages is an understatement because the dark, self-pity, and the thoughts that harden out, I try not to dwell on much too often. Due to everyone being present in this ordeal and ganging up on what was going on, I could not help but express my thoughts on what happened. In my 30s; I have only just now suffered through a life time of a loss, I had thought it was over with so much relief that it happened, but when I realized what happened I wondered if any of it ever ended. I think that I have just been waking up, maybe I should just be thankful that I will wake up again and continue. The thoughts that go around in my head with the world's silence, I find myself in a whirlwind of what happened and how I feel. I write, and write again because writing somehow brings me more clarity in my thoughts even though I am not too coherent. So here is my thoughts and writings which will be edgy and emotional, to say the least. — Why is life sometimes measured in inches and miles and sometimes yards or miles per second? And sometimes with that measurement, there can be a time difference, depending on the perspective from the standards of measurement. My life – The miles began to wear away very early on in my life, even though it became the most special place (and is still an obvious place to visit). My journey -The yards have been unfolding for some time, with over-bearing scorching heat of July along the way, not letting up for months on end. The blue sky has been replaced with glare of gray or black of an unrelenting storm. There have been many rainstorms along the way, the lightning peels the clouds away for a moment and the sky is revealed. My mission – These are the miles that are measured in seconds and minutes, many of them meticulously packed away. To day – April 17

The 25-year-old right-hander has been missing since he checked out of a Virginia rehab facility last Friday, according to ESPN's Jim Bowden, and he has not reached out to anyone. Harvey is currently in an eight-game rehab stint in the Mets' minor league system after suffering a pulmonary contusion and partially torn UCL in his right arm. Harvey originally injured the elbow in April, and it caused him to go on the disabled list for the first time in his career on May 19. He returned in an abbreviated capacity on June 6, pitching six scoreless innings, but he was shut down again. Harvey is rehabbing in Scottsdale, Arizona, and last Friday he was sent to Whitsett, a rehabilitation facility in a suburb of Richmond, Virginia. The Mets had hoped to have Harvey back on the mound by Friday, but that wasn't the case. After three rehab appearances, they sent him to Whitsett to rest his arm. Related: Matt Harvey Leaves Rehab in Va. for Unclear Reasons Bowden believes Harvey is "tentatively" expected back with the Mets at the end of this rehab stint, but he isn't confirming if that will happen. However, it sounds like a return is more likely than not, and that's important for the future of the Mets' pitching staff. Harvey is slated to be a free agent after the 2015 season, and with Zack Wheeler and Jacob deGrom looking to cash in on lucrative long-term contracts, the Mets could use Harvey as insurance. If Harvey struggles to return to the big leagues in 2015, it could become a cause for concern.Q: What is the LASSO path taken by a given data point as algorithm steps?
