What's New in the Adobe Photoshop CS5?

Q: Asp.net Button + Button Image So, I have a web form that will be used for submitting information to a database. When I click the first button I get the following result. The second button gets "POSTED" in the html source code. How do I stop the image from being posted? I'm doing this to emulate a 'Next' button on a form which has an image. I need an answer that is not based around another image. For example I'd like to set the CommandName on the first button to the same as the ID of the second button. However I can't use the second button's ID. Any ideas? Thanks! A: Here is a quick example using jQuery, the others answers suggest using javascript to reset the image src attribute. It may be that you could build a javascript function to clear the src attribute and then use the button's CommandName Property to change the text though. .aspx :

$("#btnSubmitWithImage").click(function () { $("#btnSubmitWithImage").attr("src", "~/images/arrow-left.png"); });
```
