Take a deep breath and open the PACK folder of the installation file. You should have a folder named "update" within the PACK folder and within "update" the file named "Define.exe". This file is the antivirus, and it is the one with which you are going to download the definition. Double click on the "Define.exe" to start the definition. This is the step that makes BitDefender start its work. You will see the system tray icon in the form of the BitDefender logo appearing in the lower-right corner of your screen. After the definition is installed, click on the BitDefender icon to start the service. You will now have access to the BitDefender Central service from anywhere. You can access the service by clicking on the BitDefender icon or going to the specific website at the address enter: http://www.bitdefender.com/Default\_Database.htm. Click on the question mark icon near the upper-left corner of the
