You can use this command with the slmgr.vbs in the \Windows\system32 directory to fix a boot problem. You can fix an older version of Windows 10 by turning off the Boot Update option for this system, but you cant turn it back on. You can turn it back on after youve updated it. You can see the number of reboots in Windows by typing slmgr /dlv in the command prompt. You can reset the number of reboots by typing slmgr /rearm:5 in the command prompt. You can set the number of reboots using the slmgr.vbs command. To set the number of reboots, use the /rearm option in the name of the file, as follows: Activate-ProductKey -HardwareID "HARDWAREID" -ProductID "PRODUCTID" windows 7 rearm forever 2.0 13 To make the changes to the registry permanent, add the following statement at the end of the script: Out-File -InputObject $install.log -FilePath $LogFilePath windows 7 rearm forever 2.0 13 Now when you rearm your Windows system, you wont see the Upgrade Your Product Key screen. (You will still see it if you try to rearm by entering the Product Key from a system running any previous Windows version). If you want to remove the Product Key from this screen, simply close the Registry Editor without saving. Out-File -InputObject $install.log -FilePath $LogFilePath -Append windows 7 rearm forever 2.0 13 If you want to rearm a system on a different computer, your best bet is to backup the registry. If you have a whole system backup solution like my Favorites BackupPlus, this will be much less work then uninstalling the key. Otherwise, the following Powershell command will backup and then restore the registry:

Windows 7 Rearm Forever 2.0 13

You can start these tasks manually at any time by choosing Start>Control Panel>System and Security>Administrative Tools>System and Security > Windows Components, and then choosing Restart. You can also run the sc command or enter the command rsp and press enter. You will need to either reinstall a full copy of Windows 7 or 7 SP1, or the System File Checker. The System File Checker will only be able to repair problems with the operating system itself, and will not be able to fix application problems. Unfortunately, the System File Checker will not repair the BOOTMGR file, so if you have entered the restore point, you will have to get a recovery disc and reformat your system.
