Decided November 22, 1972. ON PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE SUPREME COURT OF OHIO. PER CURIAM. This case is here on petition for a writ of certiorari to the Supreme Court of Ohio, Eighth Appellate District. On August 6, 1967, at an early morning hour, petitioner was on her way to work and was riding as a passenger in a car which was being driven by her husband. An Ohio statute makes it a criminal offense to operate a motor vehicle with one's head out of the window while traveling in the business district. A police officer stopped the car because of this law and petitioner was charged with its violation. The trial court dismissed the complaint on the grounds that the statute was unconstitutional and that the stopping of the car was unreasonable. The state's highest court upheld the constitutionality of the statute and the court rejected petitioner's argument that the officer's stopping of the car was unlawful. The court based its decision upon a line of cases in which the courts of Ohio have held that an officer may stop a car when he has probable cause to believe that a person has committed a felony. The Ohio Supreme Court also rejected petitioner's claim that the statute was overbroad. Petitioner's contention was that the statute was invalid because it was designed to protect highway safety, but that it had been applied to cars in the business district in which there was no traffic problem. In rejecting this claim, the court, citing a number of Ohio cases, found the statute was designed to protect highway safety *48 and that there is a public need for such a law. We have fully considered the case and find it free of reversible error. Petitioner's motion for a stay of execution of the judgment is denied. It is so ordered. The present invention relates to a sensing circuit and in particular to a sensing circuit for a proximity sensor for sensing the proximity of an object by using electromagnetic waves.
