To celebrate the launch of the brand new website, we are giving away the following prizes: The top 3 vote getters, with a preference for "real fans", will win a lottery to get one of the following: 1. an original auto from Legends of Wrestling on screen, signed by the whole creative team 2. an original auto of a wrestler, from any era, signed by the artist 3. a Queens of Survival series credit booklet All entries for the competition MUST include the following information in the form of a comment on this post (providing also a name, nickname, location and a favorite character): The 'repayment' feature of the website allows to give rewards by contacting us via email. The voting will be open for 10 days, with the prize drawing being carried out on May 1st. The competition is open to everyone, so the more you vote, the more chances you have to win.Sarangi Sarangi (;) is a traditional string instrument of the Indian subcontinent. It derives its name from the Sanskrit word, which means "flower". It is similar in design to the violin but has no movable pegs. It is a single-string instrument and requires no bow. Sarangi consists of a rigid frame with a sound board on the upper part, and a fingerboard on the lower part. The best-known sarangi player in the modern times is Vikram Narayan Maharaj, who often performs with his group Gwalior Sarangi, which incorporates a number of other Indian stringed instruments such as the Shehnai, the Kanjira and the Ravanahatha. The sarangi is also used in Hindustani Classical music. Notable sarangi players include Ali Akbar Khan, who was
