SaveSave They are at the top end of the evolutionary scale, their ability to learn and adapt and to adapt to their environment is extraordinary. But if they fight, they seem to have the ability to focus and coordinate their fighting, we would expect an ability for them to communicate their nitent to attack and for the person they were fighting against to understand this and to respond in kind. If they attack, they have no urge or willingness to retreat. In this case, the monkey appears to be using the nut or shell as a tool, and getting the nut off the tree by using it effectively in a way that causes the
